Why does Operational Sustainability® address critical areas as frameworks? Because in a complex system like Process Safety, every moving part affects something else. The only way to holistically see and understand the cumulative effect of those interactions in near real time is through a framework of interoperable modules with mobile capabilities. Decisions can only move as fast as the data that supports them, and waiting days or even hours for reporting on production, activities, threats or outcomes puts companies at a clear disadvantage. With a comprehensive platform that multiplies value as you add modules in each framework, every investment helps organizations achieve new aspects of Operational Excellence.
